

Experience New Hampshire's

Robert Frost - Old Stagecoach Byway

Morning

Begin your Old Stagecoach Byway journey at its southern terminus, proceeding through Atkinson on Route 121. Pass beneath the leafy "Green Tunnel" and past Dow Commons and the Town Pound, built of stone 250+ years ago.

Hungry? Stop for a scrumptious breakfast in Hampstead. Afterwards, admire the historic Town Hall and even older Meeting House, whose belfry contains a bell cast by Paul Revere's son.

Proceed north into Chester and stretch your legs in the town's historic center. Marvel at 18th-century architecture and the eccentric collection of scarecrows that crops up across town each fall!

Stop in at NH Audubon's Massabesic Center in Auburn. Kids or grandkids will love the animal room and nature shop, as well as the riveting trails enlivened with the sweet warbling of copious birds. Of course, colorful foliage and lakeside vistas will appeal to all ages.

If you're not exhausted yet, consider a sojourn at the Robert Frost Farm, home to the great poet (and byway namesake!) from 1900-1911. For a nominal fee, tour the house and explore the grounds and unique poetry trail, which transports the visitor directly into Frost's pastoral world.

Finally, partake in a delightful Derry dinner before heading home. Options range from classic diner fare to the fine flavors of India, Italy, or China. Take a leisurely stroll downtown and maybe grab some ice cream - after a satisfying day on the byway, you deserve it!
